FRESHMEN WIN BOTH DEBATES

Large Attendance at First Meeting of the Lit.

SUCCESS IS ASSURED

Both Affairs Were Closely Contested and Won by Small Margins Only.

Last evening at Strathcona Hall the first of the series of inter-class debates was held under the auspices of the rejuvenated Literary and Debating Society. About sixty members were present when the president, Frank Common, called the meeting to order in the large hall downstairs. The minutes of the last meeting of the executive were read by the secretary after which those present divided into two sections and adjourned to rooms A and B.

In the former, the debate between Law '17 and Law '18 was held while Arts '18 met Arts '19 in the other. The debate between the two years from Law was on the proposition that women should be admitted to the practice of Law in the Province of Quebec. Dean Lee, of the Law Faculty, acted as judge and announced the rules of the debate after which he called upon Mr. Phillips, of Law '18, to open the argument for the affirmative. The latter speaker began by wishing the executive of the Lit. on behalf of his class every success. He then proceeded to state the present situation in this province, taking the Langstaff case as an example. From the standpoint of history, law was not something imposed on man by a higher authority, but was made by man, for man "both male and female." Laws should keep pace with the progress of society and whereas women fifty or sixty years ago were generally illiterate they were now the equal of men in education and general fitness to undertake the practice of law. While women were naturally unable to compete in past ages when brute force was a necessary qualification for success, there was nothing to prevent them entering the intellectual field. He attempted to prove that since it was a physiological fact that boys resembled their mothers rather than their fathers, women must be as capable as men. In 1873 Sweden had allowed women to practice law and later McGill had admitted them first to the Arts course and then to the Law Faculty. All provinces in Canada except Quebec, as well as France and the United States had admitted women to the legal profession. There were only two possible explanations of the situation — either the women of Quebec were intellectually inferior to those of other countries or else the law should be amended.

Some people considered that the profession was not suitable for women but hundreds and thousands of women were engaged in business at present. If legal profession was not fit for women it was high time they were admitted in order to clean it up. If it were thought that they could not practice because denied their civil rights it should be remembered that one wrong could not be justified by the presence of another. Laws must be modified as time went on. The speaker concluded by stating that his colleague would deal with some concrete facts concerning the results in places where women had been admitted.

H. A. Rose replied for the negative and remarked that the former speaker had not seemed very certain as to what subject he was debating on. The resolution made no mention of the peculiar status of married women in this province and evidently meant that women should be allowed to practice under existing conditions. If this plan were carried out a young woman might be admitted and afterwards marry, whereupon serious complications would arise since she would not be able to carry on her practice without the consent of her husband for every detail. If the law were so amended that married women lawyers might not suffer from the same disadvantages as other married women, it would be a case of discrimination in favor of a particular class. The law must be changed in one of two ways and would result either in discrimination or in endangering the protection afforded to married women under the existing code. While a considerable number of married women were not in need of this protection there was a great majority who did need it.

To enter a profession was not a right, said the speaker, but a privilege. A profession was called into being in order to remedy some evil. On these grounds, if it was advisable that women practice law here, it must be shown either that there was a class of people to whom this new influence in law would be beneficial, or else there was a class of lawyers who would be helped by it. He went on to show that there was no need of women lawyers except in some cases such as probate and children's courts where what was needed was not law but natural equity. In such cases a lack of knowledge of law was more necessary than an overwise lawyer. He remarked that women, on entering a new sphere of action were accorded first an exaggerated courtesy, soon followed by the other extreme. In summing up his arguments he laid stress on the point that laws should not be changed in a hurry, but with the wisdom gained by the slow experience of generations. Mr. Bernstein was the next speaker and brought up again several arguments.

YOUTH INJURED ON THE CAMPUS

Frank Williams, 334 St. George St., Rendered Unconscious.

WIRE STRANDS ARE CAUSE

Taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital, But Injuries Did Not Prove Serious.

When he ran into a wire stretched from one tree to another on the campus in the vicinity of the Engineering Building at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, Frank Williams, aged 11, 334 St. George street, was rendered temporarily unconscious and was a patient in the outdoor department of the Royal Victoria Hospital until 7 o'clock last night.

Young Williams was running at top speed across a corner of the turf and failed to notice the strand of wire which had been placed by the grounds committee to prevent people from walking on the grass. He was caught on the chest by the wire and thrown violently to the ground, being rendered unconscious by the impact. A number of Science students, including J. B. Fotheringham, Sci. '16, and A. A. Brown, Sci. '16, who happened to be nearby, ran to the boy's assistance and did what they could to help him. "Jimmy," the campus policeman, was called, and the R. V. H. ambulance summoned.

The boy was taken to the outdoor department of the hospital, from which he was discharged last evening.

SECOND LECTURE TO THE R.V.C. STUDENTS

Mr. Woodworth's Lecture on Immigration to be Delivered Wednesday Afternoon.

On Wednesday, Nov. 10, at 5.15, the second opportunity of hearing Mr. Woodworth is to be given to the R. V. C. students.

Mr. Woodworth is the secretary of the Canadian Welfare League. Every Friday night he lectures in the Physics Building to the general public, but as he has been secured to give the same series of addresses in the R.V.C., the girls are enjoying them at home, so to speak. The attendance at both meetings has steadily increased.

The address in the R.V.C. this week is to deal with immigration problems, which will be exceedingly interesting to all as Canadians.

MR. LASKI AT R.V.C.

On Wednesday afternoon, at four o'clock, the Delta Sigma Society of the R.V.C. will hold their annual lecture and tea. Mr. Laski, who has a reputation as a brilliant speaker, will lecture on "The Function of the University." Afterwards tea will be served in the dining room. It is hoped that all R. V. C. students will avail themselves of this opportunity.

COUNCIL HELD BUSY MEETING

Approaching Elections of Faculty Representatives Discussed.

TO BE HELD DECEMBER 6

Nominations to be Handed in Not Later Than November 26th to Secretary.

A formidable amount of business was transacted at a meeting of the Students' Council held last night. Guy Lindsay, representative from Science, was present for the first time in several weeks, he having just recovered from an illness.

The first matter brought up was that of the Wesleyan College garbage can covers, which were appropriated by some second year Science men. Mr. Woolatt reported that Science '18 had taken up the matter and would recover the cans.

Mr. Andrews brought up the question of hockey practice hours at the Arena. The regular City League hour which would fall to McGill would be irregular and most unsuitable. The executive was therefore authorized to arrange for a suitable and regular afternoon hour.

Mr. Lamb, the president, reported that he had interviewed a Mrs. Susan Waite re alleged damage to her stair silecton during the recent freshman-sophomore hostilities. In his opinion the damage, though tangible, was small. The matter was referred to Mr. De Roche, the president of the Sophomore year, for settlement.

The B. W. & F. Club estimate for 1915-16 was read, and after certain alterations, passed.

The question of the possibility and also the advisability of having a rink this winter was raised. It was decided, however, to lay the matter over to the next meeting, while in the meantime more information on the matter is to be secured by the president of the Athletic Association.

A number of other matters were discussed, and finally the approaching elections of faculty representatives to the Council were broached.

It was decided to hold the elections on Monday, December 6, and entries to close on November 26. Any nominees must come from the junior year. Nominations from each faculty, signed by at least ten students of that faculty, must be handed in to the secretary of the Students' Society not later than November 26.

BOARD MEETING OF Y.M.C.A. DIRECTORS

A Resolution of Thanks to Councillors and the Student Body is Passed.

At the directors' board meeting of the Y.M.C.A. last night, one or two points of important business were done. It was decided to continue the Monday night meetings at 7 p.m., but that these should take place temporarily every fortnight.

Next Monday, at 7 p.m., will be held the semi-annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A., at which all the members of the committee are requested to be present. Last night, when the matter of the financial statement was brought up, it was decided to hold over the examination of this till the semi-annual meeting.

The photograph of the board of directors will be taken at 1.15 p.m. next Thursday, Nov. 11.

Before adjournment, Mr. Corbett proposed, Mr. Sutherland moved and Mr. G. Heslam seconded the following resolution:

"The executive of McGill Y.M.C.A. wishes to express its sincere appreciation of the work done by the captains and committees of the different faculties in the recent financial canvass. It feels that without their support and hearty co-operation it would not have been able to attain anything like success. The executive also desires to thank the members of the student body for the generous response they have made to the appeal for funds. To the McGill Daily and its staff it owes a great debt for the space given and the stimulating articles that were published during the campaign."

Y. W. C. A.

The photograph of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet will be taken to-morrow at 2 o'clock, at Rembrandt's Studio. Be on time.

ASSISTANT REGISTRAR APPOINTED.

B. H. Teakles has been appointed assistant registrar of the Manitoba University. The appointment was made at a meeting of the council, and the position is a new one. Mr. Teakles is a bachelor of arts of McMaster University, Toronto, and was employed for some years as a teacher in Woodstock College. He has been engaged lately in the life assurance business, but is now returning to university work.

The Futility of "The Rush"

Their eyes opened by the death of two students in the "rush" at Princeton and Leland Stanford Universities and the injuring of many others at different educational institutions throughout the country, several of the leading college newspapers in the United States are advocating its abolition and the substitution of some less harmful form of "scraps." The only wonder is that all right-thinking directors of educational institutions did not long ago put themselves on record as being opposed to the "rush," which serves no purpose other than a spectacular one. There is always the chance that someone may receive injury, as is often the case, and although there is a demand among numbers of college men for continuance of the tradition, the demand does not justify the chance of serious injury which is taken by all participants. The toll of lives taken in the "rush" in the universities across the border has always acted as one of the most outstanding reasons for their discontinuance. Besides the two students who have been killed this year at Princeton University and at Stanford University, there is on record the case of Purdue University which is at present made defendant in a suit for the death of a man killed two years ago in the "tank scrap" there.

An article recently published in a Missouri paper claims that another man, Paul Bowman, was possibly fatally injured in this year's scrap at the University of Missouri. Two others are reported as seriously injured, one with a broken leg and another with a dislocated arm.

As the Daily Illini quite rightly says, arguments in favor of "the rush" are largely sentimental. One of the most frequent of these is that without the "rush" as a test of human endurance and true nerve, students will become mollycoddles, capable of nothing more strenuous than tiddlerwinks. In this connection the Illini remarks:

"It is interesting to note that University athletes are inclined to advance the argument first mentioned, when as a matter of fact most varsity athletes have never taken part in such an encounter. Director Huff and his coaches have laid down an iron-clad rule that varsity or freshmen athletes never be allowed to enter such a contest. If the sack rush is such a strong factor in developing muscle and nerve in the underclassman, why do not the coaches urge men trying to develop along those lines to get into it? Why not spend the effort that is necessary to persuade sophomores and freshmen to enter the sack rush in trying to interest them in one or another form of athletics on the campus?"

Such arguments as these are ones which are hard to answer. The "rush" passed away years ago so far as McGill is concerned and a much less harmful substitute has been since employed. When will the American Universities have sense enough to get in line?

Editorial Note

A new arrangement, by means of which, the allotment of copies of the McGill Daily to the different buildings is to a certain extent curtailed, goes into effect to-day. Provision has been made for the supplying of every undergraduate with a copy of the newspaper, and if partial students and others, who have been in the habit of making free with the privileges of those who have paid the universal fee, persist in this practice, it is only natural that there will be a shortage. Those partial students desirous of becoming subscribers to the McGill Daily may do so in the usual way; the McGill Daily is a business concern, and to ensure its success must be conducted in a business-like manner.

The accident, minor though it was, which was brought about yesterday through the "wire entanglements" which are run from tree to tree on the Campus near the Engineering Building serves but to show how dangerous such an arrangement can become. Children throng the Campus at all hours during the day, and it is, indeed wonderful, that more accidents have not already occurred. If the presence of the wires is to prevent people from trespassing on the grass, it would seem that suitable signs would serve the same purpose. As things are at present, the wires may very readily pass unnoticed and constitute a danger which might quite profitably be removed.

Surely some more satisfactory arrangement can be devised with regard to the distribution of sweaters bearing the McGill crest. As the matter now stands, the sweaters may be obtained by any person who cares to walk into a store and purchase one. It was rather aggravating to students who happened to be on St. Catherine street recently to notice a laborer engaged in a menial occupation wearing a sweater which, although it had seen

HARRIERS HAVE EXCELLENT RUN

About A Dozen Men Were Out Yesterday.

FIVE MILES COVERED

Cross Country Run Will be Held on Saturday and Large Turn-out Expected.

The harriers held one of the most successful runs of the season yesterday, when a distance of over five miles was covered by about a dozen men. The course from the Stadium was followed along Pine avenue to Park, and from here to the Incline Railway, where the mountain road was taken. This road was followed up to the cross-roads back of the Lookout, where the runners turned and made their way back to Fletcher's Field, along Mount Royal avenue to Esplanade and back to Pine avenue.

Most of the runners kept up with the pace until the turn, and then they began to spread out. They soon dwindled down until the upper reservoir was reached, when Gerrie, MacKlin, McDermott and Wickenden were in the lead. At this point Wickenden took a "stitch" and had to return by the serpentine road. Gerrie began to stretch out, and it was only after some difficulty that he was able to shake MacKlin and McDermott.

MacKlin is running in fine form, and it was on account of a sprained ankle that he dropped back last night. In the race on Saturday he ought to be one of the leaders, so that the Science men are expecting big things from "Mac." McDermott also showed up well last night, and seemed to experience no difficulty in negotiating his seven-foot stride. "Mac" will be one of the leaders for Arts.

Wickenden is another of the men that will count for Science, as he has been running in fine form the past week. Dean for Medicine is running well and will no doubt get first for his faculty. Skinner and Derrick are running a close second and third for Medicine.

The cross-country run will be held on Saturday, the 13th, and, judging by the enthusiasm shown to date, there ought to be a fairly large entry list. All those intending to enter are asked to hand in their names to the captain, Bill Antiff, or W. H. Gerrie not later than Friday.

Amongst those out last night were Gerrie, MacKlin, McDermott, Wickenden, Walsh, Kent, Dean, Derrick, Skinner and Dowdall.

COLLEGE HAS WORKMEN CLASSES

State College, Pa.—Two new classes for industrial workers have been organized by the department of engineering extension of Pennsylvania State College. Employees of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway at Reading will spend the winter studying technical subjects, which will help them give better service to the railroad, and, at the same time, increase their earning capacities. Another class was formed among the employees of the Ridgeway Dynamo & Engine Company at Ridgeway, says the Philadelphia Ledger.

THE PHYSICAL SOCIETY.

Dr. Johnson will address the McGill Physical Society to-day at 5 o'clock. The subject of the lecture will be "Osmosis," and should prove quite interesting. The meeting will be held in the Macdonald Physics Building.

WILL RELEASE TRIEST

U. S. Collegian Was Arrested as Spy in London.

New York, Nov. 9.—Wolfgang Gustav Triest, a contractor of this city, declared last night that he had received a message by cable from the British authorities in London, announcing that his son, Kenneth Wood Triest, who is under arrest there, charged with being a German spy, would be permitted to return to the United States, and asking Mr. Triest to come to London and get him. Mr. Triest said he would sail for England on the American liner New York to-morrow.

For weeks the case of Triest, who is only 19 years old, and former Princeton student, has been a subject of diplomatic correspondence between Washington and London. The lad disappeared from Princeton last January. Last summer Mr. Triest received a telegram from the state department in Washington, informing him that Kenneth was a prisoner in the tower of London as a spy.

DUTCH TIN FOR GERMANY.

Amsterdam, Holland, Nov. 9.—The Telegraaf states that it has received information from an authentic source to the effect that the Colonial Minister has, on several occasions, authorized the sale of large quantities of tin to the German Government, and that these transactions have taken place without the knowledge of the rest of the members of the Cabinet or of those individuals who would naturally be concerned in the export of tin from the country. As a result of the action of the Colonial Minister, Holland finds herself short of tin.

WOMEN UNDERGRADUATES.

There are upwards of 70,000 women undergraduates in American institutions of higher learning.

OFFICERS FROM MALTA.

Malta.—The legislative council passed recently the first reading of a bill providing colonial allowance for certain officers belonging to Maltese corps on service with the British expeditionary forces engaged in the present war. The crown advocate, in making the motion, regretted that on account of its financial condition the colony could not make a more substantial contribution. Approval of the measure would induce several officers to proceed to the front to fight for the King and the freedom and glory of the British empire.

VISITED MACDONALD COLLEGE.

THINGS THEATRICAL

HIS MAJESTY'S.

The title of this week's play at His Majesty's is the catchword upon which hangs the whole plot of the play, "Believe me, Xantippe."

The scene is Sherry's Apartments, New York city, and George Macfarland, one of the tenants, has just been robbed. The burglars have escaped, and Macfarland has come to the conclusion that any one can do as he pleases in New York city and escape. He makes statements to this effect to Thornton Brown, a lawyer, and defies Brown and his friends Soles, the head of a detective bureau, to catch him, and takes a two to one bet that he can escape and be gone for a year uncaught. He arranges a faked-up forgery for $30,000, and after giving all particulars of height, weight, etc., he escapes while Soles is taking a flash-light picture of him. The second act presents him in a shack belonging to Sheriff Kamman in Delta, Colorado. After being perfectly subdued by the sheriff's daughter, who is alone at home, he later proves the hero in assisting her to capture "Simp" Gallaway.

The next scene is Sheriff Kamman's office and the county jail, in which Macfarland, alias McGinnis, and Simp Gallaway are securely kept. Violet appears upon the scene with a bouquet for "Simp" Gallaway but, finding McGinnis entertaining Dolly, the sheriff's daughter, she makes friends with him, with the result that he discovers in the bouquet a skeleton key for Simp's cell. She also is locked up, but McGinnis is the star prisoner, enjoying the sheriff's cigars and the best luxuries that the jail can afford. Hearing that his friends who have made this sporting bet are dead, Dolly secures his escape, but proving a very bad rider, he returns in the clutches of Martha, and there meets his two friends, who present him with $30,000, his bet, on the basis of his having been captured by a woman who was not then on the detective force. She identifies him by his using his favorite expression, "Believe me, Xantippe." The play is extremely simple, and there is no great necessity for fine acting, although it can be said of all that they played their respective parts in a manner which always brought it out to the greatest advantage. William Sullivan as Macfarland and Miss Templeton as Dolly were the outstanding characters. For something simple, catchy and bristling with little humorous commonplaces, it would be difficult to find anything more appropriate. The scenes were pretty and well staged. One difficulty was the long delay between acts, which, although filled in by the good work of the orchestra, to some extent broke the continuity. There was a good attendance, and rightly so.

GAYETY.

This week's show at the Gayety is full of fun and music. Dan Coleman and Phil Peters do the most of the comic acting, and they certainly are good. The singing and dancing is also of a high order, and the whole show has a swing to it that keeps everybody interested until the very end.

Dan Coleman as Horatio McNally, an Irishman, sings some fine parodies on popular songs, which are all very clever, and he also serves to keep everybody happy with his witty remarks and actions. In this he is ably assisted by Phil Peters as Baron Nixpiffle, a Jew. All through the play these two are continually cropping up and causing much laughter. In the singing and dancing line, Anna Mae Bell, as the telephone girl, sings some very pretty songs, which seem to please. Miss Polis, the manicure girl, also sings very well and is encored many times; but the song which received the most applause was "I'd Like to See a Little More," by Hazel Lorraine. Miss Lorraine, besides being very pretty, has a splendid voice, and she certainly made a hit in this song. Alma Connors as "Lady Beautiful" contributed several songs, and one in conjunction with Dan Coleman was very good.

Another thing that would strike one is the number of different scenes that are shown, the one under the sea especially. If you want to see a real show, don't miss this; it will be worth your time.

considerable service had, nevertheless, at one time been a McGill coat-sweater of the latest model, and which bore the crest of the University. In preparatory schools the sale and distribution of sweaters and similar articles is often governed by a system whereby they may be obtained only upon presentation of an order signed by the Bursar. What is to prevent this system or some system having a similar object being put in force here?

THE CANADIAN STEEL SUPPLY

Paper to be Presented by Maj. C. L. Cantley, Sci. '09.

INTERESTING QUESTION

Montreal Metallurgical Association Meets Wednesday Evening in Chemistry Bldg.

"Supplies of Iron and Steel in Canada" will be the topic at the next meeting of the Montreal Metallurgical Association, to be held in the Chemistry Building on Wednesday evening, at 8.15. A paper on this subject has been prepared by Colonel Thomas Cantley, president of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, and was to have been read by him at the meeting. Unfortunately, however, Colonel Cantley has been unexpectedly called to England, and it is expected that the paper will be presented by Major C. L. Cantley, Sci. '09, his son.

The demand made on the metallurgical resources of Canada in connection with the manufacture of shrapnel, high explosive shells, guns and other munitions of war has given rise to the question: "How far can the iron, steel and other metals required for these purposes be produced in Canada from Canadian ores, and to what extent and for what reasons are we obliged to import metallic supplies from abroad?" All who are interested in Canadian iron and steel industries should attend the meeting and be prepared to discuss this important question. The meeting promises to be of great interest, in view of the paper by Colonel Cantley as well as the importance of the subject. Prof. Alfred Stansfield is president of the Montreal Metallurgical Association.

NEW ZEALANDERS IN EGYPT.

Wellington, New Zealand — Col. R. Heaton Rhodes, formerly postmaster-general, has proceeded to Egypt, where he will report on matters connected with the administration at the New Zealand base. His mission is to furnish the fullest possible information regarding the mail and postal services, hospital arrangements, and the distribution of money sent through the New Zealand government and other channels for the comfort of the wounded. Information regarding fallen soldiers, the arrangements necessary to deal with their personal belongings, and particulars as to the wounded being sent back to New Zealand from time to time, will also be required into.

ments of his leader. He stated that the main objection advanced by the negative was the law which did not give an equal status to married and unmarried women. These laws were to protect the average woman, but the average woman did not intend going into law, while those exceptional women who did so were not contemplating matrimony. After the war there would be a dearth of men and in consequence many women would be forced to take up a profession who would otherwise marry and settle down. If a man did not follow his natural bent he was called a fool, but when a woman was fitted for "she was told that pot-scrubbing and dish-washing was her proper sphere." If the Quebec law was an offspring of French law the province should follow the lead of France in this respect. Either the women of Quebec were less intelligent than those of other countries or else the men were less intelligent and could not understand the arguments in favor of a change. The speaker ended by citing the illustration of the stenographers in downtown offices who knew more law than the lawyers who employed them and made six times their salaries.

Max Bernfeld replied by saying that the affirmative had failed to bring forward any adequate arguments, but set up what they expected would be the arguments of the negative, and then knocked them down. He showed that in Sweden, though women were allowed to practice law they were not allowed to bake or carry on a watch-makers business. The negative did not suggest that women be excluded on the score of inferiority, but considered that the time was not yet ripe for such a drastic change as would be involved in the proposals of the affirmative. If an experiment was to be carried out, other professions, such as medicine were more suitable than that of law. The honor of the profession would be in grave danger from commercialism since it was already overcrowded. The gentlemen supporting the affirmative could not well be expected to know much of the code in the short time they had dealt with it. In conclusion, the negative was not antagonistic to women's rights, but thought the time had not yet arrived for this proposal to be carried out.

In rebuttal Mr. Phillips went over the arguments and stated that he was prepared to see the changes necessary in the code made since he considered the resolution to include such changes as would enable women to practice on an equal footing with men.

Dean Lee then withdrew to consider his decision, and the meeting was thrown open for discussion. The chairman drew attention to the presence of Miss Hurlbutt and several young ladies from the R.V.C. and invited them to give their views on the subject under discussion. Miss Hurlbutt in reply thanked the members of the Lit. for an enjoyable evening and assured them of their appreciation of the speeches, but remarked that they were not prepared to take part in the discussion.

Mr. Bernfeld remarked that the members of the Lit. would probably enjoy listening to a debate of the Delta Sigma Society and in reply Miss Cameron invited any members who were able to do so to attend the meeting on

An Idea of Specialization

Success in any enterprise is usually based on one dominant idea. In the Men's Clothing Shop at Goodwin's the idea has been to supply, in ready-for-service clothing, garments which offer the same individuality of style that characterizes the best custom-made productions.

In their perfection of fit, fine tailoring and exclusive style, our models are first kin to the custom tailor's most ambitious work. The difference is one of price only.

Wednesday, when Dr. Laski would address them.

Messrs. Sheelman and Garber then gave their opinions on the arguments advanced by the speakers in the debate, after which Dean Lee re-entered and gave his decision. He summed up the arguments of the two sides and after pointing out the valid arguments and remarking that the speakers for the negative had laid too much stress on the status of married women as distinct from women in general he decided in favor of the affirmative, and the meeting then adjourned.

In Room A, Messrs. Levy and Klineberg, of Arts '19, opposed Messrs. Green and Callaghan, of Arts '18. The subject of the debate was: Resolved: That early closing of the saloons in Montreal would be beneficial to the Community. The freshmen taking the affirmative, and the sophomores the negative. In a spirited and well-contested debate the representatives of Arts '19 defeated their opponents. The former arguments showed a greater preparation than those of their opponents, and though they were perhaps inferior in platform presence and delivery, yet the former advantage decided the issue in their favor. The judges, Messrs. Hugesson, Hoey, and Hachett, adopted the plan of giving points. Matter counted sixty per cent, while form counted forty. While the judges adjourned to discuss their decision, remarks and criticisms from the audience were requested, and a somewhat lively discussion ensued. Upon the judge's return, Mr. Hugesson announced the decision arrived at, criticizing in a careful way the style and substance of each debater in turn. In giving the decision, Mr. Hugesson said that it was only by the slim margin of two points that the freshmen were returned the victors. The other two judges also made some helpful observations of a more general nature. After a final word from the president the meeting adjourned.

The Royal Military College of Canada

THERE are few national institutions of more value and interest to the country than the Royal Military College of Canada. Notwithstanding this, the object and the work it is accomplishing are not sufficiently understood by the general public.

The College is a Government Institution, designed primarily for the purpose of giving instruction in all branches of military science to Cadets and Officers of the Canadian Militia. In fact it corresponds to Woolwich and Sandhurst.

The Commandant and military instructors all officers on the active list of the Imperial Army, for the purpose of giving instruction in all branches of military science to Cadets and Officers of the Canadian Militia. In fact it corresponds to Woolwich and Sandhurst.

The course includes a thorough grounding in Mathematics, Civil Engineering, Surveying, Physics, Chemistry, French and English.

The strict discipline maintained at the College is one of the most valuable features of the course, and in addition, the constant practice of gymnastics, drills and outdoor exercises of all kinds, ensures health and excellent physical condition.

Commissions in all branches of the Imperial service and Canadian Permanent Force are offered annually.

The diploma of graduation is considered by the authorities conducting the examination for Dominion Land Surveyor to be equivalent to a university degree, and by the Regulations of the Law Society of Ontario, it obtains the same exemptions as a B.A. degree.

The length of the course is three years, in three terms of 9½ months each.

The total cost of the course, including board, uniform, instructional material, and all extras is about $500.

The annual competitive examination for admission to the College, takes place in May of each year, at the headquarters of the several military divisional areas and districts.

For full particulars regarding this examination and for any other information, application should be made to the secretary of the Militia Council, Ottawa, or to the Commandant, Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

CAPT. NOBBS IS TAKING COURSE

Spent Summer As Instructor With the Fusiliers.

IS ON DIVISIONAL CADRE

Now Engaged in Training Overseas Men In Physical and Bayonet Work.

Captain Percy E. Nobbs, of the Instructional Cadre of the 4th Division, is conducting a division course for instructors in physical training and bayonet fighting. Captain Nobbs was last year professor of architecture at McGill University, and in the middle of the winter he obtained a commission and went over to England as captain-instructor to the Northumberland Fusiliers. He has lately returned, and intends teaching this class of instructors all the new Aldershot course in physical training and bayonet fighting. The course, which is open to all units, will last about three and a half weeks, and when completed certificates as instructors will be awarded to all those successful in passing the final examinations.

The 73rd Battalion of Royal Highlanders have a squad of 25 men taking both the physical training and bayonet fighting sections of the course, while six men from the 3rd Siege Battery of Heavy Artillery and six from the 4th Universities Company are taking only the physical training part. The officers taking this course are Lt. Wilson, of the 3rd Siege Battery of Heavy Artillery (physical training); Lieut. McLean, of the 3rd Battalion of Royal Highlanders; Lieut. Koelle, of the 5th Royal Highlanders of Canada; and Lieut. Tyndale (all three taking both physical training and bayonet fighting), the latter at present attached to the 4th awaiting the formation of the 5th Universities Company. The men march up under command of their officers at nine o'clock and work at physical training from 9 to 12 each morning and at 2 o'clock, those taking bayonet fighting meet for an afternoon's work.

The M.A.A.A. gym has been procured for three mornings a week, while the other three mornings the class will have lectures for the first hour at the M.A.A.A. on Peel street, and then march up to the McGill campus, where the class will be divided into squads, who will take it in turn in giving the details of the exercises.

So far the bayonet fighting class has been held on the plateau of grass behind the old Medical Building at McGill University. It is expected that later trenches will be used for practice in bayonet attack, when the class will move to ground specially laid out for that purpose.

In the physical training the details for each exercise are given with the example by Capt. Nobbs, and after the practising of a complete table of exercises by the entire class, it is then divided up into squads which proceed with self-instruction. The theory of the work is then discussed by the instructor, thus serving to making the morning of great interest and variation.

The bayonet work has so far been conducted without the use of trenches, and the parrying and thrusts of the bayonet are practised with rifles, poles and bags, on the ends of sticks, with which the men take turn and turn about. Only three officers and the 73rd Highlanders are taking the bayonet work, so that the class contains no more than thirty, ensuring ample instruction for all, especially when five of the Highlanders have already taken a complete course in bayonet fighting at Valcartier this summer, and thus able to help instruct the others.

PATRIOTIC PROFESSOR

"The Sheaf" Pays Tribute to Pte. F. H. Underhill, of Fourth Company.

Speaking of Pte. F. H. Underhill, of the Fourth Universities Company, The Sheaf, of the University of Saskatchewan, says:

"During the summer another of our professors has answered the call to arms. It is hard for us to realize what a great sacrifice Prof. Underhill has made. After spending the best years of his life in the best universities preparing for his professorship to be called away at the very outset of his career is indeed a notable case of self-surrender. During his short stay among us he made many friends who are sorry that he will not be with us this year, but who wish him Godspeed in his assistance to 'the cause,' and a safe return to our midst."

MAJOR WILGAR PROMOTED

Major Wilgar, head of the Civil Engineering Department of Queen's University, has accepted a military appointment. He will be attached to the instructional cadre at the Engineers' Training Depot, and will be actively engaged in the training of officers of the engineers for overseas duty.

Major Wilgar came to the university last fall, and has done valuable work with the students. During the summer he was in charge of the Depot Company of the 5th F.C.C.G. at Barriefield.

He will be succeeded at Queen's by Mr. T. S. Scott, a former graduate, who has lately been the president of a large contracting firm at Vancouver, B.C. Mr. Scott took the degree of B.A. in '94 and B.Sc. in '97, and was a prominent athlete, being a crack quarter back of the football team in his university years.

"THE DAILY" AT THE HOSPITAL

The Most Welcome Paper In Camp, Says Pte. A. Jenks.

ARE INTERESTED IN NEWS

"Monty" Interested In The Stadium Several Wards At Hospital Closed.

Pte. A. N. Jenks, Dent. '17, with No. 3 (McGill) General Hospital, writes:

The camp cry to-day is "Have you seen 'The Daily'?" "No; where?" "Up in the Y tent." Straightaway the receiver treks up to the field branch Y. M. C. A. tent, which is our reading-room, to see the most welcome paper that comes into camp. I have an idea that the sight of the familiar sheet which used to be thrown around so carelessly makes some of the chaps homesick. No Dailies the world over are more read than those which arrive here. Notwithstanding they are two weeks old. If sports day were in France to-day, it would be ideal, cool and sunny. Your enterprise in continuing the paper is very commendable.

Private L. C. (Monty) Montgomery writes:

"This is just a note to let you know that the Dailies have arrived. It certainly was great to read about what you people are doing, and the papers have already passed through numerous hands. The system you have worked out for carrying on Rugby this year is very good, I think. It will probably be more noticeable in the number of men turning out in future years. That has already been the case around McGill, men who could turn out. This class stuff ought to develop them and give them confidence to turn out with the regular squad."

"The Stadium sure does look like a grand place. The grand stand is what caught my eye. It looks like the real thing. Won't it be grand when things return to the normal and the old gang are all back? It is to be hoped that the temporary dressing sheds are somewhat ahead of the one under the old grand stand."

"Everything is quiet around here now. Some of the wards are closed up, our ward being included in the number. As a result, I'm out of a job and will probably be put on the general duties squad till they open up again. Deshrisay is going on night duty for the first time to-night, while old Tim (Timling), like myself, is an outcast, also. This (Chisholm), is looking for a job. I don't mind the change for a little while, but I hope it doesn't keep up for all winter."

"The sisters are having their sleeping huts put up for them now, also the sergeants' mess hut and our own. The fellows will probably be under canvas all winter, and, believe me, I think it is going to be rather cool some nights. In fact, one didn't perspire profusely last night while rolled up in three pairs of blankets. The family, Chis, Dbe, Tim, and myself, are considering seriously about having two double beds made. Two sleeping together will be able to keep the other fellow warm."

"Best regards to all the bunch, and once more many thanks to whoever is responsible for 'The Daily.'"

Lieut. Murray Robertson, who is at the Engineers' Training Depot, Shorncliffe, writes as follows to W. Culyer, hall porter of the Union:

"Am spending a rainy Sunday writing letters, as I thought I might as well drop you a few lines. I suppose the term is well under way now, and I wouldn't mind a bit if I were back there. A couple of copies of the Daily came in the last Canadian mail, and I noticed in one of them that you were to get a new uniform. It strikes me that there are a lot more people around the Union (and I don't mean those on the staff) who should get new uniforms as well."

"I saw Ed. Penny when I was up in London a while ago. He has a commission in the Rifle Brigade. Also saw George Laing up there. He is with the R. A. M. C. there. Shirley Dixon is here with the 23rd. There is a grand old bunch of the boys around here; I keep running into them all the time."

QUEEN'S NEW LIBRARY.

The authorities of Queen's University have accepted the suggestion of the architects in charge of the arrangements for the new library that the building be erected at the north-western corner of the university grounds in Kingston, at the corner of Union street and University avenue. The work on the plans will now proceed rapidly.

OLD CHATEAU SHELL-SWEPT

DRAPERIES IN WINDOWS

Pleasant Evening Spent at House of Belgian Family in Neighborhood.

Acting Sergeant G. Reid Giles, of Science '17, who crossed recently to France with the Second Sanitary Section, Second Division, C.E.F., writes the following interesting letter:

"I am writing this letter in a real shell-proof dugout. It is a fine one, with a little place off one end to sleep in and a table and benches in the main part. If you stand on the roof you are in full view of the enemy, so we stay down. There is an old house near whose front is riddled with shrapnel. A little further on is a little town I visited yesterday. Well, it was a town, but now it is battered down and is a sandbag village. I went through a real chateau. It is a shame the way it was damaged. The heavy draperies were still on the windows in a rather torn and dirty shape. The chateau itself is built on an island in a large artificial lake. The lodge is in the midst of beautiful grounds, or I should say, they were beautiful before the war. A large shell hole adorns the side of the building, but did not break it very much. The hall is just like a classy hotel lobby, and a large ground piano sits unused in the drawing room. It was a sight worth seeing."

"I am lucky in being able to see the country so much, for my job is to inspect camps all over the division which are not under our sanitary squad."

A later letter reads: "Here I am again in my billet, which is—well, I don't know what to call it. It is a kind of small barn, but is of brick, and is quite warm and comfortable. We are in a little town which is quite quiet. I have just come back from spending the evening at a Belgian house, drinking coffee and watching the girl making lace. I don't know if you have ever seen anybody making lace, but, believe me, it is interesting to watch. The two men of the house got out their flutes and gave us some music, which was very good. Some of the people are very nice."

"It will take us some time to train ourselves for society when we get back. This is a rough life, you know. If the war would end soon, you would not see a happier bunch of fellows than the boys at the front. We are all getting tired of the thing. If there was only something going on in the fighting line, it would not be so bad. Our line is exactly the same as it was a year ago, only we are much better equipped and stronger than the Germans. The army is well looked after. You can get anything you want in the way of clothing, and we get well fed. We are mostly acting sergeants, wearing three stripes. Of course, they are not permanent, and most likely we will not wear them going home. We could not do our work without them, as we have men under us."

"Well, I must close now and get to bed, as it is 7.30 o'clock. Every one must be off the street then here."

E. Buchanan, Arts '19, and J. H. Molson, Arts '19, provisional lieutenants in the 5th Royal Highlanders, are attending the Provisional School of Infantry, which opened in this city yesterday under the direction of Major McRobie, G.S.O., 4th Division.

H. B. Rogers, Med. '01, who is serving overseas with the Army Medical Corps, has been promoted to the rank of captain.

Arthur J. Losier, Med. '04, is at the front with the Canadian Army Medical Corps as lieutenant. He writes that the C.A.M.C. is located along with the McGill Hospital, the Harvard Hospital and a Chicago hospital, and the four form a small hospital town of no small dimensions. Lieut. Losier's home is in Chatham, N.B.

P. M. Atkinson, Med. '09, who resides at Moncton, N.B., has recently been successful in quelling an outbreak of typhoid fever at Dorchester, N.B.

D. M. Morrison is with "D" Company, of the 77th Battalion, C.E.F., in training at Ottawa.

T. Cyril Creaghen, Sci. '16, has sailed for overseas service. He is lieutenant with the 55th Battalion, C.E.F. Last winter he was assistant manager of the senior hockey team.

Lieut. Norman F. McCaghey, Sci. '16, spent the week-end in the city. He is attached to the 52nd Battalion, C.E.F. McCaghey was last year treasurer of the Science Undergraduates' Society. The 52nd was raised at Fort Arthur, Ont., and will winter at St. John, N.B.

Lieut. M. D. Macfarlane, Sci. '16, who crossed to England last year, is now with the 7th Middlesex Regiment, attached to the Royal Flying Corps.

J. Ross Taylor, Sci. '16, is attending the Royal School of Artillery course, which opened at Kingston yesterday. Taylor has acted as field assistant in the mines branch of the Department of Mines during the summer.

HAVE MADE GOOD.

"Have you any complaints to make?" Pte. Barrett, a returned P.P.C.L.I. man, was asked.

"I have no complaints. I am a soldier," replied Barrett.

Barrett stated that the reinforcements the Pats received from the First Overseas University draft helped splendidly in the trenches and proved to be first-class fighters.

"They fully maintained the honor of the regiment," was his comment. Curious to say, Barrett was wounded in the same leg in the Boer war, but it was a bullet wound and it did not put him out of action.

Gill; subalterns, W. L. Williams, C. R. Hagey, G. R. Rogers and R. M. Elmer. Two of these have already had considerable military experience, G. R. Rogers having been with the 7th Brigade at Valcartier, and C. R. Hagey being a sergeant-major of the Engineers.

The officers who will accompany the unit overseas will be chosen after the unit overseas will be chosen after the unit is recruited up to strength.

The Royal Military College of Canada

THERE are few national institutions of more value and interest to the country than the Royal Military College of Canada. Notwithstanding this, the object and the work it is accomplishing are not sufficiently understood by the general public.

The College is a Government Institution, designed primarily for the purpose of giving instruction in all branches of military science to Cadets and Officers of the Canadian Militia. In fact it corresponds to Woolwich and Sandhurst.

The Commandant and military instructors are all officers on the active list of the Imperial Army, sent for the purpose of giving instruction in all branches of military science to Cadets and Officers of the Canadian Militia. In fact it corresponds to Woolwich and Sandhurst.

The Commandant and military instructors are all officers on the active list of the Imperial Army, sent for the purpose of giving instruction in all branches of military science to Cadets and Officers of the Canadian Militia. In fact it corresponds to Woolwich and Sandhurst.

The strict discipline maintained at the College is one of the most valuable features of the course, and in addition, the constant practice of gymnastics, drills and outdoor exercises of all kinds, ensure health and excellent physical condition.

Commissions in all branches of the Imperial Army and Canadian Permanent Force are offered annually.

The diploma of graduation is considered by the authorities conducting the examination for Dominion Land Surveyor to be equivalent to a university degree, and by the Regulations of the Law Society of Ontario, it obtains the same exemptions as a B.A. degree.

The length of the course is three years, in three terms of 9½ months each.

The total cost of the course, including board, uniform, instructional material, and all extras is about $300.

The annual competitive examination for admission to the College, takes place in May of each year, at the headquarters of the several military divisions and districts.

For full particulars regarding this examination and for any other information, application should be made to the secretary of the Militia Council, Ottawa, Ont., or to the Commandant, Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

CAPT. NOBBS IS TAKING COURSE

Spent Summer As Instructor With the Fusiliers.

IS ON DIVISIONAL CADRE

Now Engaged in Training Overseas Men In Physical and Bayonet Work.

Captain Percy E. Nobbs, of the Instructional Cadre of the 4th Division, is conducting a division course for instructors in physical training and bayonet fighting. Captain Nobbs was last year professor of architecture at McGill University, and in the middle of the winter he obtained a commission and went over to England as captain-instructor to the Northumberland Fusiliers. He has lately returned, and intends teaching this class of instructors all the new Aldershot course in physical training and bayonet fighting. The course, which is open to all units, will last about three and a half weeks, and when completed certificates as instructors will be awarded to all those successful in passing the final examinations.

The 73rd Battalion of Royal Highlanders have a squad of 25 men taking both the physical training and bayonet fighting sections of the course, while six men from the 3rd Siege Battery of Heavy Artillery and six from the 4th Universities Company are taking only the physical training part. The officers taking this course are Lt. Wilson, of the 3rd Siege Battery of Heavy Artillery (physical training); Lieut. McLean, of the 3rd Battalion of Royal Highlanders; Lieut. Koelle, of the 5th Royal Highlanders of Canada; and Lieut. Tyndale (all three taking both physical training and bayonet fighting), the latter at present attached to the 4th waiting the formation of the 5th Universities Company. The men march up under command of their officers at nine o'clock and work at physical training from 9 to 12 each morning and at 2 o'clock, those taking bayonet fighting meet for an afternoon's work.

The M.A.A.A. gym has been procured for three mornings a week, while the other three mornings the class will have lectures for the first hour at the M.A.A.A. on Peel street, and then march up to the McGill campus, where the class will be divided in squads, who will take it in turn in giving the details of the exercises.

So far the bayonet fighting class has been held on the plateau of grass between the old Medical Building at McGill University. It is expected that later trenches will be used for practice in bayonet attack, when the class will move to ground specially laid out for that purpose.

In the physical training the details for each exercise are given with the example by Capt. Nobbs, and after the practising of a complete table of exercises by the entire class, it is then divided up into squads which proceed with self-instruction. The theory of the work is then discussed by the instructor, thus serving to making the morning of great interest and variation.

The bayonet work has so far been conducted without the use of trenches, and the parrying and thrusts of the bayonet are practised with rifles, poles and bags, on the ends of sticks, with which the men take turn and turn about. Only three officers and the 73rd Highlanders are taking the bayonet work, so that the class contains no more than thirty, ensuring ample instruction for all, especially when five of the Highlanders have already taken a complete course in bayonet fighting at Valcartier this summer, and thus able to help instruct the others.

PATRIOTIC PROFESSOR

"The Sheaf" Pays Tribute to Pte. F. H. Underhill, of Fourth Company.

Speaking of Pte. F. H. Underhill, of the Fourth Universities Company, The Sheaf, of the University of Saskatchewan, says:

"During the summer another of our professors has answered the call to arms. It is hard for us to realize what a great sacrifice Prof. Underhill has made. After spending the best years of his life in the best universities preparing for his professorship to be called away at the very outset of his career is indeed a notable case of self-surrender. During his short stay among us he made many friends who are sorry that he will not be with us this year, but who wish him Godspeed in his assistance to 'the cause,' and a safe return to our midst."

MAJOR WILGAR PROMOTED

Major Wilgar, head of the Civil Engineering Department of Queen's University, has accepted a military appointment. He will be attached to the instructional cadre at the Engineers Training Depot, and will be actively engaged in the training of officers of the engineers for overseas duty.

Major Wilgar came to the university last fall, and has done valuable work with the students. During the summer he was in charge of the Depot Company of the 5th C.C.G. at Barrie, field.

He will be succeeded at Queen's by Mr. T. S. Scott, a former graduate, who has lately been the president of a large contracting firm at Vancouver, B.C. Mr. Scott took the degree of B.A. in '94 and B.Sc. in '97, and was a prominent athlete, being a crack quarter back of the football team in his university years.

REGIMENTAL BAND.

"THE DAILY" AT THE HOSPITAL

The Most Welcome Paper in Camp, Says Pte. A. Jenks.

ARE INTERESTED IN NEWS

"Monty" Interested in the Stadium Several Wards At Hospital Closed.

Pte. A. N. Jenks, Dent. '17, with No. 3 (McGill) General Hospital, writes:

The camp cry to-day is "Have you seen 'The Daily'?" "No, where?" "Up in the Y tent." Straightaway the receiver treks up to the field branch Y. M. C. A. tent, which is our reading room, to see the most welcome paper that comes into camp. I have an idea that the sight of the familiar sheet which used to be thrown around so carelessly makes some of the chaps homesick. No Dailies the world over are more read than those which arrive here, notwithstanding they are two weeks old. If sports day were in France to-day, it would be ideal, cool and sunny. Your enterprise in continuing the paper is very commendable.

Private L. C. (Monty) Montgomery writes:

"This is just a note to let you know that the Dailies have arrived. It certainly was great to read about what you people are doing, and the papers have already passed through numerous hands. The system you have worked out for carrying on Rugby this year is very good, I think. It will probably be more noticeable in the number of men turning out in future years. That has already been the trouble around McGill, men who could make good on teams wouldn't turn out. This class stuff ought to develop them and give them confidence to turn out with the regular squad."

"The Stadium sure does look like a grand place. The grand stand is what caught my eye. It looks like the real thing. Won't it be grand when things return to the normal and the old gang are all back? It is to be hoped that the temporary dressing sheds are somewhat ahead of the one under the old grand stand."

"Everything is quiet around here now. Some of the wards are closed up, our ward being included in the number. As a result, I'm out of a job and will probably be put on the general duties squad till they open up again. Desbrisay is going on night duty for the first time to-night, while old Tin (Tinling), like myself, is an outcast. Also Chis (Chisholm), an looking for a job. I don't mind the change for a little while, but I hope it doesn't keep up for all winter."

"The sisters are having their sleeping huts put up for them now, also the sergeants' mess hut and our own. The fellows will probably be under canvas all winter, and believe me, I think it is going to be rather cool some nights. In fact, one didn't perspire profusely last night while rolled up in three pairs of blankets. The family, Chis, Dbe., Tin, and myself, are considering seriously about having two double beds made. Two sleeping together will be able to keep the other fellow warm."

"Best regards to all the bunch, and once more many thanks to whoever is responsible for 'The Daily.'"

Lieut. Murray Robertson, who is at the Engineers Training Depot, Shorncliffe, writes as follows to W. Culyer, hall porter of the Union:

"Am spending a rainy Sunday writing letters, as I thought I might as well drop you a few lines. I suppose the term is well under way now, and I wouldn't mind a bit if I were back there. A couple of copies of the Daily came in the last Canadian mail, and I noticed in one of them that you were to get a new uniform. It strikes me that there are a lot more people around the Union (and I don't mean those on the staff) who should get new uniforms as well."

"I saw Ed. Penny when I was up in London a while ago. He has a commission in the Rifle Brigade. Also saw George Laing up there. He is with the R. A. M. C. there. Shirley Dixon is here with the 23rd. There is a grand old bunch of the boys around here; I keep running into them all the time."

QUEEN'S NEW LIBRARY.

The authorities of Queen's University have accepted the suggestion of the architects in charge of the arrangements for the new library that the building be erected at the north-western corner of the university grounds in Kingston, at the corner of Union street and University avenue. The work on the plans will now proceed rapidly.

DRAPERIES IN WINDOWS

Pleasant Evening Spent at House of Belgian Family in Neighborhood.

Acting Sergeant G. Reid Giles, of Science '17, who crossed recently to France with the Second Sanitary Section, Second Division, C.E.F., writes the following interesting letter:

"I am writing this letter in a real shell-proof dugout. It is a fine one, with a little place off one end to sleep in and a table and benches in the main part. If you stand on the roof you are in full view of the enemy, so we stay down. There is an old house near whose front is riddled with shrapnel. A little further on is a little town I visited yesterday. Well, it was a town, but now it is battered down and is a sandbag village. I went through a real chateau. It is a shame the way it was damaged. The heavy draperies were still on the windows in a rather torn and dirty shape. The chateau itself is built on an island in a large artificial lake. The lodge is in the midst of beautiful grounds, or I should say, they were beautiful before the war. A large shell hole adorns the side of the building, but did not break it very much. The hall is just like a classy hotel lobby, and a large ground piano sits unused in the drawing room. It was a sight worth seeing."

"I am lucky in being able to see the country so much, for my job is to inspect camps all over the division which are not under our sanitary squad."

A later letter reads:
"Here I am again in my billet, which is—well, I don't know what to call it. It is a kind of small barn, but is of brick, and is quite warm and comfortable. We are in a little town which is quite quaint. I have just come back from spending the evening at a Belgium house, drinking coffee and watching the girl making lace. I don't know if you have ever seen anybody making lace, but, believe me, it is interesting to watch. The two men of the house got out their flutes and gave us some music, which was very good. Some of the people are very nice."

"It will take us some time to train ourselves for society when we get back. This is a rough life, you know. If the war would end soon, you would not see a happier bunch of fellows than the boys at the front. We are all getting tired of the thing. If there was only something going on in the fighting line, it would not be so bad. Our line is exactly the same as it was a year ago, only we are much better equipped and stronger than the Germans. The army is well looked after. You can get anything you want in the way of clothing, and we get well fed. We are mostly acting sergeants, wearing three stripes. Of course, they are not permanent, and most likely we will not wear them going home. We could not do our work without them, as we have men under us."

"Well, I must close now and get to bed, as it is 7.30 o'clock. Every one must be off the street then here."

E. Buchanan, Arts '19, and J. H. Molson, Arts '19, provisional lieutenants in the 5th Royal Highlanders, are attending the Provisional School of Infantry, which opened in this city yesterday under the direction of Major McRobie, G.S.O., 4th Division.

H. B. Rogers, Med. '01, who is serving overseas with the Army Medical Corps, has been promoted to the rank of captain.

Arthur J. Losier, Med. '04, is at the front with the Canadian Army Medical Corps as lieutenant. He writes that the C.A.M.C. is located along with the McGill Hospital, the Harvard Hospital and a Chicago hospital, and the four form a small hospital town of no small dimensions. Lieut. Losier's home is in Chatham, N.B.

P. M. Atkinson, Med. '09, who resides at Moncton, N.B., has recently been successful in quelling an outbreak of typhoid fever at Dorchester, N.B.

D. M. Morrison is with "D" Company, of the 77th Battalion, C.E.F., in training at Ottawa.

T. Cyril Creaghen, Sci. '16, has sailed for overseas service. He is lieutenant with the 55th Battalion, C.E.F. Last winter he was assistant manager of the senior hockey team.

Lieut. Norman F. McCaghey, Sci. '16, spent the week-end in the city. He is attached to the 52nd Battalion, C.E.F. McCaghey was last year treasurer of the Science Undergraduates' Society. The 52nd was raised at Port Arthur, Ont., and will winter at St. John, N.B.

Lieut. M. D. Macfarlane, Sci. '16, who crossed to England last year, is now with the 7th Middlesex Regiment, attached to the Royal Flying Corps.

J. Ross Taylor, Sci. '16, is attending the Royal School of Artillery course, which opened at Kingston yesterday. Taylor has acted as field assistant in the mines branch of the Department of Mines during the summer.

HAVE MADE GOOD.

"Have you any complaints to make?" Pte. Barrett, a returned P.P.C.L.I. man, was asked.

"I have no complaints. I am a soldier," replied Barrett.

Barrett stated that the reinforcements the Pats received from the First Overseas University draft helped splendidly in the trenches and proved to be first-class fighters.

"They fully maintained the honor of the regiment," was his comment. Curious to say, Barrett was wounded in the same leg in the Boer war, but it was a bullet wound and it did not put him out of action.

RULES VIOLATED AT TORONTO UNIVERSITY

Senior Arts Used Ineligible Men In Mulock Cup Games.

There is a regulation by the athletic directorate of the University of Toronto which prohibits registered students engaging in other than intercollegiate or inter-faculty competitions without permission. Likewise there is a rule which makes non-students ineligible to participate in inter-faculty contests. The former rule is seldom violated, but there have been frequent violations of the latter of late, especially in the football games for the Mulock cup.

The attention of the athletic directorate has been called to this fact, with the result that upon investigation it has been found that players from interprovincial, O. R. F. U. and City League intermediate and senior teams have been playing in the Mulock cup series. The directorate has warned the managers of the respective teams in this competition that the use of non-student players will result in the loss of the game as if by default.

On account of this warning, Smithson, of the Capitals, was not used by S. P. S. seniors on Monday. Smithson has since applied for reinstatement. Senior Arts used ineligible men in their game with Dental College, and accordingly lost their game as if by default.

The Mulock Cup standing to date is as follows:

Group A.	Won.	Lost.	Play.
Senior Meds.	1	0	3
Senior S. P. S.	1	1	2
St. Michael's	0	1	3
Group B.
Junior S. P. S.	3	0	1
Junior Meds.	2	1	1
Forestry	4	0	0
Group C.
Victoria College	2	0	2
Dental	1	1	2
Senior U. C. (Arts)	0	2	2
Group D.
Trinity College	2	0	2
Junior U. C. (Arts)	1	1	2
Knox College	0	2	2

In group B, Forestry have withdrawn their team, thus defaulting all their games, which go to the other teams as wins.

ARTS PRACTICE HELD.

A practice of the Arts team was held yesterday afternoon at the new Stadium, in preparation for their game with Medicine, which is to be held tomorrow at 3.30 p.m. The turnout was very good, all men being present with the exception of the rotund Allan, whose duties are too numerous to allow him to take in such trifling affairs as mere football practices.

The game to-morrow ought to be full of thrills, as Medicine have a heavy team, and a well-balanced back division, and expect to romp through the Arts line for big gains.

R. V. C. BASKETBALL.

The first of the inter-year basketball matches at the R. V. C. will be played on Wednesday, November 17, between seniors and freshmen, and juniors and sophs. To make these games interesting, hard and steady practice is necessary.

GREAT COACH OUT OF GAME

Father Stanton, While Coach, Developed Many Stars.

GREAT LOSS TO COLLEGE

Responsible For the Abolition of Superfluous Back-Field
Players.

H. W. B., of Wilkie, a former Ottawa athlete, writes as follows in the Regina Leader:

"Conspicuous by his absence from Canadian rugby this fall is the Rev. Father Stanton, formerly coach of the Ottawa University and Ottawa football clubs. Since the fall of 1907 he has almost continuously acted in the capacity of coach to the college football, baseball, and track teams. His reputation was probably greatest in 1907, when for the first time Ottawa College won the Intercollegiate Championship. That year he produced such stars to the game as Nick Bawlf, Jim Dean, Pete Conway, 'Chump' O'Neill, 'Pud' Whelan, Troupe, Street, Brennan, and others. At that he had the highest team in the league.

"In 1909 he had several of the same players, but did not finish so well. He dropped out of the game until the season of 1911, and finished in second place this season. In the opinion of many, he had the best team in the intercollegiate, but through a very questionable decision on the part of the referee his team was beaten in the last few minutes of the game in Toronto by Varsity, after having a lead throughout the game. Even most Toronto supporters acknowledged that College should and would have won out but for this decision. It was a question of no yards, but it was quite plain that yards had been given by the College player.

"That year they started out the season by being beaten by McGill in Montreal by a score of 20 to 5. They were breaking in several youngsters, and they took stage fright. The following Saturday they defeated Queen's in Ottawa by one point, coming from behind in the dying minutes of the game. The following Saturday the Toronto Varsity went down to defeat by a score of 10 to 8 at their hands. It was this day that the wonderful Cornellier established himself as one of the best punters who ever donned a garnet and grey uniform; he kicked eight of the ten points registered that day. They beat Queen's in Kingston on the following Saturday, and very decisively beat McGill in Ottawa the next Saturday. The following weekend the Toronto Varsity beat them in the deciding game for the championship in Toronto.

"The following players constituted the team: Quilty, Cornellier, Hefferman, Sheehy, Killian, Kennedy, Cyra, Leachy, Sullivan, O'Leary, Phols, Harrington, Nagle, Gilligan, and Chantal and Chartrand.

Abolished Superfluous Backs.

"Father Stanton was really the coach who was responsible for the abolition of some of the superfluous backfield men, and the creation of flying wings. In 1911 he used only two men, Killian and Cornellier, behind the line, with Dick Sheehy about two feet behind the scrimmage to break up any plays too close for the halfbacks. The long suit of this team was condition and tackling ability. They were greatly out-weighted by the other teams. In 1912 College dropped out of the Intercollegiate, and the following year they amalgamated with the Ottawas, forming what was known as the Ottawa City-Varsity team, with Dr. Stanton as coach. They finished in second place. The College players who took an active part were Quilty, Killian, Gilligan, Holly, Sullivan, Killian and others. Last fall the College players weren't in any league, but the majority of the St. Patrick O.R.F.U. team were players in attendance at the College who learned the game under Fr. Stanton. Some of these were Nagle, Madden, Higgins, Ward, Adams, Fogarty brothers, and others. At one period of the T. R. and A. A. game in Ottawa there were 13 College men on at once. College men this year with other teams: Silver, Quilty (last year with McGill), Eddie Nagle, the former Battleford hockeyist; Adams, with Ottawas; Dick Sheehy, with Argos; Eddie O'Leary and Lajoie, with T. R. and A. A.; Joe Gilhooley, with M.A.A.A.; and several men on the inter-faculty teams at McGill and Varsity.

"You're Never Licked Till You Quit."

"These men are all stars, and owe a great deal of their success to Fr. Stanton's coaching. He has produced more winners probably than any coach in the Canadian game. Notably among these are Nick Bawlf, Cornellier, Chartrand, Killian, and others. Last year he developed a boy by the name of Doran, who could hoof the old ball a mile. He was an excellent ball carrier, too; he never played senior football, although both St. Pats and Ottawas were hot after him last year. Quilty, Nagle, Sheehy, Holly, Hefferman, and other good ones learned how to tackle low, hard, and often from the reverend coach. His motto was, 'You are never licked till you quit,' and it was drilled into the players' heads, for just as hard when they were behind as when they were winning.

NEWS OF OTHER SOLDIERS

Sergt. R. A. Fraser Writes Interesting Letter From Ross Barracks, Shorncliffe.

That Q.M.S. Harry Beatty, Arts '15, and Sergt. T. A. Williams, Sci. '15, both of whom are in England with the 7th Canadian Field Artillery Brigade, had a close shave on the occasion of the recent Zeppelin air raid on Otterpool camp and vicinity is evident from a letter just received by Eric A. Cushing, president of the Track Club, from Sergt. C. F. A. Fraser, Arts '15, 3rd Reserve Battery, C. E. F., Ross Barracks, Shorncliffe.

Sergt. Fraser says:

"Just a few lines to give you some news of some of our boys. I suppose the bunch are back at college again and I suppose (?) studying hard. I guess things are pretty dull around college this year without any football. Well, most of our boys have pulled out with the Second Division, and there are only a few of us left around Folkestone and Shorncliffe now, although there was a big bunch at the first of September.

Keith Ewart and Ewan McEwan went away with the 2nd Signal Company. Alvin Hicor went with the 6th Field Ambulance and Boyd Caldwell with the Sanitary Section of the Army Medical Corps. Bruce Ross and Frank Lawson did not leave with the 2nd Division and I don't know whether they have left since or not for I have not seen either of them lately. Paul Clark and Billy Nicholson left for France with the C.M.R. last Saturday. I was up to their camp last Wednesday night and said good-bye to them. Harry Beatty, Toby Williams, Jim McKeown and myself are about all of the bunch that are left around these parts now. Bish and Toby are with the 26th Battery, 7th Brigade, at Westenhanger, which is about six miles from here. I saw both of them about ten days ago. They had a very narrow escape from an air raid the other night. A Zepp dropped five bombs and barely missed the camp. Bish says the next time they come he is going to strap his knees together to keep them from knocking. It gave everybody a bad scare.

"The Otterpool camp, which is about two miles from Westenhanger, was not so fortunate as fourteen men were blown to pieces. They were mostly all from the 5th Artillery Brigade which comes from the West. I notice that the 7th Brigade is reported in France, but they were left behind when the 2nd Division pulled out as they had not had sufficient training. I expect, however, they will be leaving in a month or two as they are working hard at present.

"Jim McKeown came across at the same time as I did and also came to this brigade. He, however, was fortunate enough to get a section commander's job in a Howitzer Brigade, which was picked of this outfit last month. He is at present out at Otterpool Camp and I have not seen him recently. I have not heard from any of the boys with the McGill Hospital. They have been in France since June. I wish some of your fellows would write and let me know what is doing around college this year as I have had no news at all. There's a big recruiting rally going on over here now. If it is not a success it's conscription for England and it will be the same in Canada."

NOTICE.

A meeting of the Athletic Association will be held Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, in the McGill Union.

OTTAWA LOSE "SHAG."

An exchange says: The latest rumor on "the street" is to the effect that Ottawa may lose Frank Shaughnessy entirely, and that under the new arrangement in hockey, whereby Messrs. McCaffery and Solman will acquire the Shamrock franchise, Shaughnessy will be engaged to manage both the Toronto Baseball Club and the Shamrocks.

VEGETABLES FOR BRITISH FLEET

Edinburgh.—Much has been done in Scotland supplying the North Sea fleet with fruit and vegetables. It is interesting to know that the school children in many districts have specially contributed. They have competed for the best plots, and each child has then arrived on the day of dispatch with his bunch of leeks, or turnips, or cabbages, which have been watched and cared for by the fleet.

always finished one and two in the Ottawa City League. He ended up his career at Ottawa College by a great field day, which was open to all athletes of the city; his team won the majority of the events, Nagle winning more points than all the other clubs of the city put together. Nick Bawlf was also greatly responsible for the success of this meet.

"Father Stanton is now preaching missions on the American side."

Toronto, Nov. 9.—Junior S. P. S. won group B of the Mulock Cup series by beating Junior Medicine 9 to 1 at the U. of T. stadium Saturday.
